1 INTRODUCTION: AN INVITATION TO NURSING

Nursing is a rewarding career that offers a bright and satisfying future for young persons who have a desire to serve people with a caring attitude. As members of a modern health care team, nurses render a significant service in the care of the sick and in the prevention of illness and injury.

Increasing numbers of trained nurses are needed to fill responsible positions as experts in bedside nursing services, and as researchers seeking new and better ways of meeting the nursing needs of patients. Salary and conditions of service of nurses are attractive compared to those in other fields of employment with similar educational requirements.

Nursing is a science and an art. It is, in fact, a vocation which harmoniously combines these two aspects. While the scientific aspect is of utmost importance, the value of personal touch, understanding and compassion are indispensable in the making of a good nurse. The work of a nurse is no longer confined to bedside duties in hospital wards but extends to public health, teaching and administration too.

The science of nursing has made great strides since the time the 'Lady with the Lamp' ministered to the wounded and sick soldiers in the Crimean battlefield. Today, nursing has become a highly respected and skilled profession, demanding specialized technical knowledge of a high order and dexterity on the part of the practitioner. Alertness, quickness of action, ability to meet complicated situations in a calm and confident manner as well as the power to grasp the rapid advances that are taking place in the profession are other essential attributes of the nurse. The modern nurse is well-informed about sophisticated equipments used in diagnosis and therapy, latest surgical procedures, intensive care of the severely ill, organ transplant and a host of other complicated and difficult tasks which she may be handling in her daily routine. This calls for a high degree of intelligence and diligent study on the part of the nurse.

Nursing offers a challenge and opportunity to serve a fellow being. If you have the zeal and desire for nursing, you are invited to choose this noble profession.

2 KNOW YOUR INSTITUTION & COLLEGE OF NURSING

St. Stephen's Hospital, Delhi is a charitable healthcare institution, established and run by the minority Christian community, and administered by the Governing Body on behalf of the St. Stephen's Hospital Society.

Dating back to 1885, this Hospital's existence has been a saga of struggle and sacrifice in meeting the health needs of its surrounding community. It had a humble beginning in 1885 as a 20-bed hospital in Chandni Chowk in memory of Ms. Priscilla Winter, a non-medical missionary who led medical work for the ladies of the walled city. By 1908, the Hospital grew into a 100-bedded Women and Children's hospital relocated at Tis Hazari. In 1976 the Hospital was upgraded to a 450 bed multi-speciality hospital, and in 1996 a Mother and Child Block was constructed and commissioned. This modern well-equipped building has a present strength of 595 beds. In 2012, the St. Stephen's Hospital Healthcare Facility was opened in Gurgaon, Haryana which is a branch of the main Hospital.
